

DIRECTORS VOTE PAY RAISES TO
3 SCHOOL HEADS

The Adams county school directors, at their annual meeting in Ardentville Friday, voted to increase the salary of Superintendent of Schools J. Floyd Slaybaugh to $5,000; Assistant Superintendent Charles I. Raffensperger to $4,500 and Miss Grace H. Brandon, supervisor of special education, to $4,500.

Superintendent Slaybaugh and his assistant have been getting $4,000 each.

Action was taken by the directors Friday to avoid calling a special convention at some later date to vote on the new minimum salary schedule for the county officials. The new schedule, which increases the basic salaries for the county superintendent and assistant and the basic salary of the supervisor of special education by $1,000, is the minimum salary permitted under a new act of legislature. When the increases are effective will be decided by the state.

Name Two To County Board

An increase of $800 in the salary of the secretary, Miss Justine Charles, was also voted, bringing her salary to $2,000 per year. At present the county commissioners pay $100 a month to the secretary in the county superintendent's office. The additional $800, according to the vote at Ardentville, will be paid by the various school boards in the county.

John W. Lucabaugh, Berwick township, and Rowe M. Martin, Biglerville, were elected as members of the county board of school directors. J. Willis Waybright, Mt. Joy township, was named as auditor and William M. Lott, Huntingdon township, and John W. Bream, Franklin township, were named as delegates to the state school directors' convention in Harrisburg February 4 and 5. Three alternates were voted upon. J. Faber Wildisan, Abbottstown, was named as first alternate and H. S. Reigle, McSherrystown, and Luther Ritter, Littlestown, were tied for the second spot.

Resolutions urging the various districts which have not yet elected principal teachers to do so; urging the state to pay $6 per day and 6 cents per mile transportation for directors attending conventions, and urging all of the schools in the county to conform with the school calendar made by the county board were passed.

Special Music

"Education in a free government is not a job for the teacher, nor a gift for the child," the directors were told by Harold C. Kessinger, Ridgewood, N. J., during his afternoon talk. "Education in a free government is one of its basic needs, for no country can long remain ignorant and free."

He termed the public school the one basis for democracy but urged changes in the teaching of history. "Who do we glorify in our history books?" he asked. "Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, the Hitlers and Mussolinis. But who should live in the hearts of the children, the killers of men, or the saviors?"

York Springs high school choruses under the direction of Dorothy M. Elgin presented the musical part of the afternoon program.

Luther M. Lady was in charge of group singing at a turkey banquet in the Ardentville school cafeteria during the early part of the afternoon session. The Rev. George H. Berkheimer offered prayer and Luther E. Jacobs was toastmaster. County Superintendent of Schools, J. Floyd Slaybaugh introduced the guests.

Dr. Boyson Asking
New Trial Of Suit

Counsel for Dr. William A. Boyson, Mechanicsburg, who was awarded $400 by a jury in his $25,000 suit against Joseph R. Hanna, Upper Darby, has filed a motion for a new trial at the Cumberland county court house.

Doctor Boyson suffered abdominal injuries when he was stabbed by Hanna during a quarrel on June 13, 1946, near the former's home. The argument was precipitated when Doctor Boyson reprimanded one of three boys who were caught in a cherry tree on the physician's property.

Gas Co. Employees,
Guests Dine, Dance

Fifty-one employees and guests of the Gettysburg Gas corporation attended their annual Christmas dinner and dance Wednesday evening at the Lee-Meade inn.

Official guests included G. E. Wilson, Pittsburg, superintendent of distribution; C. F. Montgomery, Pittsburg, of the personnel department; and District Manager Carl Robbins of Cumberland, Md. W. F. Holtzworth, president of the Gettysburg Gasco club, was the toastmaster. After the turkey dinner, there was dancing to the music of Bill Jones' orchestra.

Woman Injured In Automobile Crash

A McSherrystown woman was slightly injured and two cars were damaged to the extent of about $175 in a collision on the Littlestown-Hanover highway Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. State police here investigated and said one of the drivers involved, Charles B. Eckenrode, Littlestown R. 2, will be charged with failing to yield half the highway to oncoming traffic.

A car operated by Eckenrode collided with a machine driven by Reuben A. Bair, 363 North street, McSherrystown, after Eckenrode attempted to pass another machine while Bair approached from the opposite direction. Mrs. Margaret Bair, wife of the driver, suffered face injuries that were treated by a McSherrystown doctor.

MOST PRICES AT
FARMERS' MART
ARE UNCHANGED

Prices remained practically unchanged on the Farmers' Market today. Supplies of pork were fairly plentiful with sausage selling at 60 cents a pound; scrapple, 28 cents; lard, 33 cents a pound; backbone, 45 cents a pound; ribs, 40 cents a pound; fresh side meat, 55 cents a pound; loin, 80 cents a pound; pudding, 50 cents a pound and liver 45 cents a pound.

Smoked sausage and cured bacon were added to the list today, each selling for 60 cents a pound.

There was no change in the price of eggs. They brought from 65 to 73 cents a dozen. Chickens and ducks were 60 cents a pound.

Christmas trees and Christmas greens were on the market for the second week. Cedar, jack pine and yellow pine sold from 50 cents to $2 each, depending upon size. Orders were being taken for later delivery.

Plan Extra Session

Pine and evergreen branches and sprays sold for ten cents each. Other greens for decorating included laurel at five cents a branch and bunches of red berries at 20 cents a bunch.

Apples ran from $1.50 to $2 a half bushel. Potatoes were $2 to $2.40 a bushel. Cabbage was six cents a pound; squash and pumpkins five to 25 cents each; turnips, ten cents a box.

Butter sold for 75 cents a pound; potato salad 20 cents a pint; sweet cream 35 cents a pint; cottage cheese 20 cents a pint; cakes 40 and 45 cents each; cider, 60 cents a gallon; apple butter, 65 cents a quart.

The market will be open on Wednesday, December 24, for the holiday buying.

Monday Is Deadline
For Xmas Greetings

Dig out that Christmas card list and limber up your tongue to lick a lot of stamps over the week-end—because the post office says you'd better get all your holiday greeting cards in the mail by Monday evening to insure delivery by December 24.

"If your Christmas cards aren't in the mail pickup boxes by Monday night, we can't guarantee they'll be delivered before Christmas Day," says Postmaster Laurence E. Oyler. "We're doing our best with the seasonal flood of mail, but you have to remember that in the nine days between now and Christmas, the average mail carrier will deliver as much mail as in six full weeks of normal operations."

The deadline for out-of-state mail was last Wednesday, December 10. So if there are distant friends and relatives on that Christmas card list the postmaster advises the use of airmail.

Red-Backed Strike In Rome
Ends; Victory Is Disputed

By JOHN P. MCKNIGHT

Rome, Dec. 13 (AP)—A 48-hour Communist-led general strike in Rome—the latest skirmish in the left's unceasing war against Italy's middle-of-the-road cabinet—ended today after a steely show of government might. Both sides claimed victory.

Jeep loads of riot police circulated throughout Rome this morning, as the Eternal City quickly got back to normal, keeping an eye peeled for possible post-strike trouble, but, they said, finding none.

The Communist-dominated Chamber of Labor of Rome province, which ordered the work stoppage Wednesday night and called it off last night, effective at midnight, used only one word in its daily news bulletin this morning: "Victory."

Il Popolo, the organ of Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrat party declared just as flatly in a secretly set and printed issue timed to appear as the strike ended: "Strike Fails."

New Delay On Date
For Simmons Hearing

A hearing on the petition of Ray H. Simmons for a retrial on the murder charge brought against him will be held December 22, District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., said today.

Following a court trial last spring in which Simmons was found guilty of murder of Herbert Hunpert, Gardner R. D. farmer, his attorneys asked for a new trial. A hearing on the petition was originally scheduled for October and then at the request of Simmons' attorneys was postponed until December 15. Today it was announced that another week's extension has been granted Simmons.

FIGURES SHOW
RISING COST OF SCHOOL SYSTEM

The tremendous increase in the amount spent yearly for education in Adams county in the last 20 years was outlined Friday afternoon to the Adams county school directors at their annual convention at Ardentville in the form of a report showing income and expenditures for the years 1926-27, 1936-37 and 1946-47.

Where total receipts in 1926-27 were $347,598 in the county, the receipts last year were $779,464, the report disclosed. The past 10 years has shown the greatest increase, with the 1936-37 receipts being $441,738, less than $100,000 more than the figures for the 1926-1927 period. Most of the increase between 1927 and 1947 is paid for by state appropriations.

Figures for indebtedness given for the same periods show that the county schools are less in debt at the present time than they were in the 1936-37 period, but have more debt than 20 years ago. The indebtedness in 1946-47 is listed as $58,692 as compared with $130,177 in 1937 and $10,426 in 1927.

Balances Larger

The schools ended the year with the largest balance in history, the figures show, but much of that was due to a change made during previous years in the manner of paying teachers. In 1927, when most schools paid their teachers their entire salary in nine months, the schools had a balance of $15,355 at the end of the year. In 1937 the balance was $26,398. This past year, when most schools still had three months' salaries to pay on the 12-month period, the balance was $123,807.

A huge increase in the amount paid by the state is shown by the statistics. In 1927 the state paid $86,010 toward the upkeep of Adams county schools. In 1937 the amount of state appropriation was $127,532. In 1947 the state paid $428,349.

MAGAZINE GIVES MORE PUBLICITY
FOR GETTYSBURG

Gettysburg is called "the best known unadvertised little city in the United States," in an article on "Gettysburg, the Nation's Greatest Historical Shrine," which occupies the first two pages in "The Lilly Review," a magazine published by Eli Lilly and company of Indianapolis, Ind., makers of penicillin and other related products, and distributed around the world.

The article was written for the magazine by R. K. Downs, medical service representative of the company, of York, whose territory includes Gettysburg. It is illustrated with pictures of Hancock avenue and the High Water mark; the statues of General Lee and General Meade, the National monument and the Eternal Light Peace Memorial.

Salient facts of the battle are related, and Mr. Downs tells his readers that the National cemetery "consists of about fifteen and one-half acres, and contains one hundred different species of trees and shrubs."

Continuing, he says: "The cemetery was turned over to the government in 1872 for administration by the War department. In the cemetery are buried more than 3,000 Union soldiers, 974 of whom are listed as unidentified. A total of 3,320 Confederates were transferred to Southern cemeteries."

"In 1895 an act of Congress made the battlefield a national military park, and since then, three and one-half million dollars have been spent on its development and maintenance. Today the park contains 2,530 acres of land; 35 miles of paved avenues; 2,388 monuments, tablets and markers, which have been placed along the main battle lines, and 417 cannons, which are located in the approximate positions held by the batteries during the battle."

Mr. Downs points out that Gettysburg college, founded in 1832, is the oldest Lutheran college in the country.

Doors to the theatre will open at 7:30 o'clock and the concert will start at 8:30 p. m. There will be no admission and no collection. The concert is open to all music-lovers of Gettysburg and Adams county. When the 1,138 seats in the theatre are filled the doors will be closed and no others will be admitted.

It has been announced that Sunday's program is considered one of the finest ever attempted by the choir.

EPLY OPENS
17-DAY TRUCK
AND CAR SHOW

C. W. Epley's first post-war automobile and truck show, the first in Adams county, opened Friday evening at 7 o'clock with a large number of visitors.

Mr. Epley, veteran Adams county automobile dealer who was recently elected to the Automotive Pioneers Association, an organization of automobile people who have been in business in the same location a minimum of 25 consecutive years, is the local Studebaker distributor.

On display in the current show, the only one-dealer exhibit in the county, are four cars, 19 trucks, accessories, parts and supplies.

Variety of Vehicles

One vehicle, the largest on display, has an 195 inch wheelbase. Others include new models with van body; two line spreaders which can be converted into coal trucks; two different size dump trucks, stake body vehicles; conversion hoist trucks, cattle trucks, open chassis and other combination pieces of equipments.

Passenger vehicles include a 5-passenger Commander Regal De Luxe coupe; Commander Regal De Luxe Land cruiser, a four-door sedan; a Champion Regal De Luxe 4-door sedan and a two-door sedan.

Added features include a display of a new Studebaker on a floor-level turn-table in continuous operation and a Studebaker truck, Timken 2-speed differential showing the inner mechanism of this gearing. The entire top-half covering has been removed and the method with which the vehicle can be shifted from fast to slow axle speed or slow to fast speed in a split second, without declutching, is visible. It is referred to as the "double-line vacuum actuation."

Showroom Is Decorated

The interior of Mr. Epley's garage, at the corner of Chambersburg and South Washington streets, has been repainted, 77 new American flags, some double-faced, hang from the seven steel girders that support the roof.

Glenn Musselman, Jr., of Orrtanna, made a number of the interior decorations which include huge pine wreaths, candle arrangements in white, silver, red and green and other attractive ornaments around the showroom.

More than 9,000 invitations have been mailed throughout the county and the show will be open to the public without charge. Hours are from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. through December 31.

Mr. Epley gave his last show in 1937.

THREE DAMAGE
ACTIONS OPENED IN COURT HERE

Three actions in trespass were filed Friday with the county prothonotary.

In one case Clair Berkheimer, LeRoy Berkheimer and Helen Berkheimer, all of Hanover, are suing the Bethlehem Steel company for damages. No complaint has been filed as yet on the case but it was understood that the Berkheimers are seeking damages for injury caused to their farm near Bittingers by operations of the Bethlehem Steel quarry there.

In a previous action filed several years ago, the Berkheimers sought damages for the loss of water from their property and other damage allegedly caused by operation of the quarry. It is understood that the present suit is for damages alleged to have occurred since that time.

The two other suits are amicable actions between Robert C. Clingar and sons, Taneytown R. 1, against the Steele's Hanover Laundry. The Clingars are seeking damages for injuries suffered by Richard R. and Robert T. Clingar, minor sons of Robert C. Clingar in an auto accident last January near Littlestown.

According to the complaint in the two actions filed this morning with the county court, the youths were injured when a car driven by their mother, Mrs. Mary T. Clingar, attempted to pass a Steele's laundry truck and the truck at that moment pulled to the left of the road, forcing the Clingar car into a pile.

All three actions were filed for the plaintiffs by Attorney Daniel E. Teeter.

BOMB BURST AT DAMASCUS GATE KILLS 4 ARABS

Jerusalem, Dec. 13 (AP)—Bombs killed 12 Arabs in two Holy Land cities today and wounded 60 others.

Jerusalem, Dec. 13 (AP)—A bomb exploded near the Damascus gate of Jerusalem's old city today, killing four Arabs and injuring others. Police opened up with machine gun fire over the heads of milling Arab crowds.

Eyewitnesses said the bomb was thrown from a Jewish taxi. The bomb casualties advanced the death toll in Palestine to 202 as Arab-Jewish communal rioting went into its 14th day.

Associated Press Photographer James Pringle who was at the scene of the explosion said that angry Arab mobs had gathered in the area and "seem to be rallying for a march" into the modern section of Jerusalem.

Police are "scared." Even the police are scared," Pringle said.

"The dead and injured are lying in the street and the police are struggling with the mob leaders," Pringle said.

It was reported the license number of the machine from which the bomb was thrown was taken down and the vehicle is being sought.

Almost simultaneous with the explosion a fire broke out in a Jewish typewriter firm and living quarters in midtown Jaffa road, leading to a report that the bomb had exploded in the center of the heavily fortified post office and police headquarters zone.

The report was denied officially and a spokesman said the "down town incident was only an ordinary fire."

Matches and smoking caused 17 per cent of the fire losses last year. Petroleum products were responsible for 14 per cent, misuse of electricity 12 per cent, stoves and furnaces 11 per cent. Other causes, graduating downward in responsibility, were chimneys, flues and stacks; fire originating off premises; sparks on roof; lightning, hot ashes and open fires, open lights, spontaneous combustion and rubbish and litter, lowest at 2.29 per cent.

Daffodils First Of Spring Blooms

Daffodils are growing in popularity in this country for many reasons.

They are the first major flowers to blossom in the spring, preceded only by the minor bulbs, and providing the earliest large flowers for cutting, as well as garden display.

Great improvements in size and color have been made, and most bulbs sold here are American grown, since the industry became well established during the many years when a government quarantine prevented the importation of bulbs for sale.

*Plants will endure for years, in most gardens. There are few locations where daffodils will not live and multiply. They can be left without lifting until they begin to crowd, then may be taken up and replanted to cover more space.

Charles K. Miller, Lancaster, is spending the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Robert C. Miller, Baltimore street.

EVEN DESIGNER ADMITS WOMEN OVERDO THINGS

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor
New York (AP)—After a round-the-world trip during which he observed the "new look" in England, Hawaii, Australia, Singapore, Ceylon, the Fiji Islands and most of the major cities of the U.S.A., Pierre Balmain, young French designer who is credited with being responsible for much of the current fashion furore, admits that the thing can be overdone. Pausing between public appearances in New York, Mr. Balmain mopped a damp brow and said: "Some women seem to be overdoing the 'new look,' wearing their skirts TOO long and TOO full and making themselves look ridiculous. They go out in fancy dress, instead of using restraint."

"Are you against the 'new look,' now that you have seen it in operation?" he was asked.

America Best Dressed
"No indeed," said Mr. Balmain firmly. "You have to remember, after all, that any look would look bad on some people." The best dressed women he saw in his world travels, Mr. Balmain said, were in America. He explained: "In the United States you get the new styles faster than anywhere else. For instance, I saw one of the best models from my collection worn on the street in New York, Dallas, Boston and San Francisco. I had been bought by a New York manufacturer, reproduced to sell at a modest price and stocked by stores all over the country."

"In France we have a few superlatively dressed women, but the others cannot afford clothes by the couturiers, and they do not buy ready-made dresses, because the wholesale dress industry in France is very bad."

The "new look" is just starting in Australia, Mr. Balmain said, and he didn't notice any discernible change in the hemline of the Fiji Islanders.

Likes Simplicity
The French designer, who has come into prominence in the last few years, believes in restraint and simplicity in dress. His idea of a well-dressed woman is as follows: "When you forget to look at a woman's dress, that means she is well dressed. You should get the impact of her personality first, receive a pleasing impression of an attractive woman. The dress should not shriek at you."

"I don't like to have someone say to me—'Your dress looked wonderful on Mrs. So-and-So last night.' I'd rather hear—'Mrs. So-and-So looked charming last night.'"

Another pet aversion of Mr. Balmain is the daring décolletage. He says: "I don't believe in making clothes sexy on purpose."

Planting Safe 'Til Soil Freezes Hard

When freezing temperatures begin, many home gardeners who have not finished their fall planting, wonder how much longer it can be done. The answer is, as long as the soil will crumble and can be packed properly about the bulbs and the roots of plants.

It makes small difference to a plant whether it is November or December, so long as it can be properly installed in its new location. A crust of frost on the surface of the soil will not interfere with

DEATHS

Mrs. Howard H. Hoover

Mrs. Mary Bricker Hoover, 85, of New Oxford R. D. 1, near Hampton, died at 4:15 a. m. Friday after a seven-week illness.

A daughter of the late Jacob M. and Maria Forry Bricker, Mrs. Hoover was preceded in death by her husband in 1905. She was the sole survivor of her family.

Funeral services Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Hoover residence conducted by Rev. A. C. Rohrbaugh, pastor of Abbottstown Reformed church. Burial in Mt. Olive cemetery, Abbottstown.

John A. Seabright

John A. Seabright, 78, of Paradise township, near East Berlin, was found dead in his home by neighbors at 10 a. m. Friday.

Lester J. Sell, York county coroner, named cerebral hemorrhage as cause of death in a death certificate, and disclosed that probable time of death was around 9 p. m. Thursday.

A retired farmer and a member of St. John's Lutheran church, York, Mr. Seabright was preceded in death by his wife, the late Mrs. Emma Shue Seabright. He is survived by a brother, Charles, of Hanover.

Funeral services at 2 p. m. Monday at the Emig funeral home, East Berlin, conducted by Rev. Edward Krause, pastor emeritus of St. John's Lutheran church. Interment in Abbottstown Lutheran cemetery.

George Geary

George Geary, Red Lion, a salesman in Adams county for 30 years and who has been prominent in church affairs in the borough and state, died of a heart condition Thursday afternoon at his residence. He was 52 years old. The son of the late George and Mary Price Geary, he is survived by his wife, a daughter, Jan Lynn Geary, at home, and two brothers and a sister. He has been connected with the William Wrigley, Jr., Company of Chicago for more than 25 years, working out of their New York office. He was president of the 700 Bowling league and one of the officers of the York County Bowling league. Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p. m. at the Burg Funeral home, Red Lion.

planting; but when the soil has been frozen deeply, then planting must cease.

If deep freezing threatens, and you know the location in which you wish to plant, it can be protected by a light mulch of leaves for a week or two. A very thin layer will keep the frost out until temperatures drop close to zero.

It is true that late planting is not the best; and everything will do better if planted soon enough to make considerable root growth in the fall. But late planting is better than none, and preferable to spring planting with many subjects.

HANGED—Despite strenuous protests from the U. S. and England, Nikola Petkov, (above) leader of the Bulgarian peasant party, was convicted and hanged on charges of conspiring against the country's Communist-dominated government.

WITNESS—Adolphe Menjou, veteran film actor, puffs on a cigarette during a pause in testimony before the house un-American activities committee, which held hearings on alleged Communist infiltration into motion picture making.

Johnny Arrives

Johnny Fagan, 7, who doesn't remember his parents or his nationality and who has lived with U. S. troops since the Battle of the Bulge three years ago, shows the money he has saved as he reached New York by boat from Bremerhaven, Germany.

Things Of The Soil OUR WINTER DUTY TO BIRDS

It is, of course, somewhat difficult to convince the gardener or farmer, whose crops were ravaged by birds last June, that it is a sound investment to feed and protect birds over winter. But the fact remains it is. We may as well face the truth of the situation with all its inconsequential side arguments removed. Man must have birds to aid him. Without them he will ultimately encounter complete and disastrous defeat at the battlefield against predacious insects. The world has seen and recorded incontrovertible instances of this proposition. In the future, as in the past, a community without plenty of birds is a community riddled by insect pests.

Once the well established fact is admitted that birds are necessary to the maintenance of civilization's safety against insects which feed on man's food, it must then be agreed that man owes some measures of protection to his feathered friends against their enemies. This is nothing more or less than fair reciprocity. It apparently is the only practical way in which the law of compensation can operate between men and birds.

What are birds' greatest enemies? What can citizens do to repay the almost incomprehensible debt owed to birds?

First, man is the greatest enemy birdlife has. All other foes dwindle to insignificance beside man and his continual ingratitude and even his actual assaults. Perhaps second on the enemy list is the one man is solely responsible for—the homeless or uncontrolled house cat. Third, most bird lovers list lack of adequate winter food. It is this need that warrants attention as cold weather arrives.

Feeding birds is no hit-and-miss duty. If man owes this debt to his friends of the summer, he should pay it on a daily basis all winter. Weekly and monthly payments are worthless all the time and altogether. To give birds a liberal breakfast today and not repeat the performance until next week may mean starvation in the meantime and surely starvation for all the brood if snow covers the ground and temperatures drop low in the meantime.

Of course, the feed should be composed of materials birds relish and which nourish them seasonally, and it should be furnished where they can eat it unmolested. This principle suggests a few sound bird-feeding rules for winter use:

1. Give upland birds, such as quails, sheaves of oats or wheat, heads of sorghum or sunflowers, and similar grain in sheltered forest nooks every two or three days over winter.

2. Save screenings, apple parings, suet and other barn, granary and kitchen wastes and give them to birds daily in a regular feeding place.

3. An excellent place to feed birds in the home grounds is a platform erected on top of a pole with a protecting roof to shelter feed from weather. Be certain cats cannot reach the platform.

4. Provide drinking water in winter when all outdoor sources may be frozen over.

5. Protein feeds are as necessary for birds as for poultry. Therefore, add meat scraps, tankage, and similar animal matter to the offered meals every few days.

6. Winter feeding pays as big dividends for urban people as for those who live on farms.

SUBSTITUTES FOR ELM TREES

When individual home builders and urban community planners of 50 to 150 years ago were choosing shade trees, they gave first place to the worthy elm in most parts of eastern United States. Of course, at that time their selection was sound and fully beyond adverse criticism. The elm has through all the years well merited this pre-eminence. But in many communities the Dutch elm disease has already threatened this tree with extinction and in many

Upper Communities

Phyllis Peters, Aspers, is one of 27 students at Pennsylvania State College who have been pledged to the Louise Homer society of that college. The society is the women's music honorary group there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Kime and daughter, Miriam, Biglerville R. 1, are spending the day in York.

The following officers were elected at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association of the Arendtsville unit of the Upper Adams School District jointure on Thursday evening at Arendtsville: President, Howard H. Shockey; vice president, Mrs. Richard Trostle; secretary, Lewis Bosserman, and treasurer, Donald Bisserman.

A large attendance marked the meeting. Moving pictures were shown to children while parents were attending the meeting.

The Friendship class of Trinity-Bender's Reformed Sunday school, Biglerville, held its annual Christmas meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Roy Lawver with 12 members present. Election of officers was held with the following results: President, Mrs. Roy Lawver; vice president, Miss Edna Walter; secretary, Miss Mildred Osborn, and treasurer, Mrs. Herman Warner. The gifts which were exchanged are being sent to the children of Hoffman orphanage. Following the presentation of a Christmas program, refreshments were served.

The King's Daughters class of Bethlehem Lutheran Sunday school, Bendersville, will hold a Christmas party meeting Friday evening, December 19 at the home of Mrs. Mervin Knouse with Mrs. Robert Peters as the associate hostesses. There will be an exchange of gifts.

The Trilogy club held its annual Christmas meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur E. Rice, Gettysburg. Mrs. William C. Tyson read several Christmas stories. An exchange of gifts was held. The committee on arrangements included Mrs. J. Willis Beldler, Mrs. M. T. Dill and Mrs. Chester J. Tyson. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Beidler with Mrs. Martha Boyer Lower in charge of the program.

The next regular meeting of the Upper Adams County Lions club will be held at Biglerville high school Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Chairman Clair Grimm, together with Ryland Garretson and Fremont Kuntz, members of the Health and Welfare committee, have secured John Joseph, a Persian from Iran, as a speaker. Mr. Joseph is an exchange student attending Franklin and Marshall college, Lancaster. Donald E. Horst, secretary of Team No. 2 for the club's fund raising projects, requests that members of this team attend an important meeting following the regular club meeting.

cases the destruction is complete. Therefore, home owners and towns and villages must make a new choice, must select a substitute, a successor, to the elm. What shall it be?

The task is a difficult one. In the fullest sense, no other deciduous tree can ever take the elm's place. It would be a miracle if some new dish would come along and supplant the American buckwheat cake and maple sirup. Such things just do not occur. But in seeking to replace the threatened elm choices must be made in at least two important lights, according to two vital questions—Is the substitute species likely to succumb to some new disease or insect enemy? Is it a sturdy, dependable species?

Of course, regions will vary greatly in tree hardness, also the particular roles in which each tree serves. For example, modern urban life has developed new tree menaces, such as gas and smoke perils which citizens did not have to consider when they originally selected the elm as the most prominent tree. Too, soil moisture supplies are not only less plentiful where impressive paving covers urban streets and sidewalks, but even along rural highways and in the home grounds of country homes the moisture supply is below that of a century ago. Thus the choice should be determined at least partly by how vigorous a particular species is in the immediate region, also the place in which the particular tree is to grow.

In view of probable future tree dangers as well as present menaces, choices should be made in most cases from the following species and varieties:

Norway maple, while it is not a native American tree, this attractive tree makes a good substitute for the elm. It thrives in fairly inhospitable sites along curbs and attains its finest form in roomy lawns and along highways.

Oaks. To date no serious threat has appeared against these hardy trees. Pin oaks, white oaks and red oaks all make excellent shade trees. And their growth is more rapid than most persons believe, especially when well rooted nursery specimens are used.

Sugar maple. This tree reaches amazing beauty along highways and in rural home grounds. It rarely serves so well in crowded city locations, although it may be selected wisely in more open suburban areas. The gums. Here is an extremely hardy tree which deserves wider use for shade purposes. It is particularly beautiful in autumn. It is listed botanically at Liquidambar, the

WHITE HOUSE FLORIST HAS WORK APLENTY

Washington (AP)—Robert Redmond has planted 500 pounds of choice grass seed on the 18 acres that comprise America's number one lawn. Not only that, but he's set out 15,000 pansy plants and 5,000 tulip bulbs—the dark red Charles Needham variety circling the fountain in the South Garden and the pink Princess Elizabeths around the fountain in the North garden, overlooking Pennsylvania avenue.

Redmond is the White House florist. He's had the job since the Harding administration. When you call National 1414 on the phone and ask for the florist a nice voice answers "Bouquet Room—Mr. Redmond speaking."

It's always been called the "bouquet room," at least all the 24 years Redmond's been on hand at the White House.

Flowers For All Events
Redmond says he's called upon to arrange all the bouquets for table decorations, for dinners, for teas, receptions and other White House functions. He keeps abreast of the times, reads all the current floral magazines and tries not to have the same kind of bouquets on the tables for two successive events.

At this time of the year he likes to use the various kinds of chrysanthemums, late fall roses and the brighter-hued autumn flowers. He keeps up with the seasons—poinsettias at Christmas time, lilies at Eastertime and so on.

Before the war 32 greenhouses in the Tidal Basin area supplied the White House and the National Park Service with flowering plants, palms and what-not. They were removed to make way for a small bridge, and Redmond has been buying on the open market.

He says Mrs. Truman seems pleased with his selections, always is appreciative.

Redmond and his 10 helpers are kept busy tending the boxwood which was put in around the Rose Garden during the Wilson administration and the California privet which forms a high hedge around all the gardens.

White House Refurbished
During August, when the White House was closed for a good going over, the East Room received a new coat of off-white paint, as did the entrance lobby, the basement corridor and the long corridor connecting the East Room with the State Dining Room.

New drapes, scarlet with gold and scarlet fringe trimming, were hung in the lobby. The green drapes of the State Dining Room were exchanged for some of a heavy gold fabric.

The silver on the chandelier in the State Dining Room, after 45 years of polishing, had worn a bit thin. The chandelier was replated, and the old gilt chandelier in the Red Room was exchanged for a handsome crystal one, anonymously given.

WITHDRAWS CHARGE

A charge of surety of the peace filed by Mrs. Eva Myrick, 43 Breckinridge street, against her husband, Alfred, was withdrawn Friday night and the case dismissed by Justice of the Peace John H. Basore. Myrick was arrested Thursday night and released on his own recognizance for a hearing Friday night.

sweet gum as L. styraciflua.

Ginkgo. This tree is more ornamental than worthy as a shade producing tree. Yet its hardness under almost all conditions gives it a place as an elm substitute. It is unique in its leaf and branch form.

Black walnuts and shagbark hickory nuts may be considered for country lawns and along highways.

CAPE—This new fur cape is styled by Weinig in royal pastel mutation mink. In harmony with current fashion trends it features a generous swirling circular line.

Makes "Fuzzy Forecast" For Frazzled Year Just Ahead

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—I am going to unwrap the old crystal ball and give you an advance look at 1948, trusting that everyone kindly has forgotten that nine days before Hiroshima was wiped out I predicted the Japanese war might last another full year.

The forecast is for a strange and exciting year. In fact, frazzled 1948 will be like 1947 hopped up by vitamins.

Here are the prospects:
Prices will remain a lot higher than skirts. A genuine T-bone steak of pre-war thickness will be exhibited at the American Museum of Natural history and draw thousands of admiring visitors. It will be flanked by two armed guards.

Leap Year Prediction
The slogan of single ladies will be "The new look before you leap" at the bachelors they'll have to propose to, since it will be Leap Year.

The "new look" won't improve with age, and neither will the ladies who wear it. More and more they will come to realize why an open stadium attracts more people than a tent show.

Santa Claus will pension his reindeer and write an anonymous letter to the newspapers complaining he had to pay $500 over the list price to get him a new automobile.

Shaw Again
Somewhere a woman driver will hear a knock in her car's motor, stop, open the hood and see coiled inside—a rattlesnake. (This has happened every year since Henry Ford quit playing marbles.)

A member of the National Association of manufacturers will send John L. Lewis an eyebrow comb, and George Bernard Shaw will again disclaim any responsibility for mankind.

Vaudeville will rise from its grave and parade its creaking bones across the television screen briefly, then return to the winding sheet of oblivion.

William Saroyan will compose a new play—this time in English—and the critics won't like it because they will be able to understand it.

To Find Use For Penny
At the opening of the Metropolitan Opera in Manhattan two society dowagers who spend the evening kicking a football around the bar lounge will lose the front page play to an actress who arrives escorted by a real ape dressed in a tuxedo and wearing a diamond in its forehead.

A jury will set free a man accused of murdering an old friend who insisted on telling three venerable "talking dog" stories in a row.

A man will get wealthy by inventing a radio gadget that filters out jokes about why Bing Crosby's racehorses never win.

The "man of the year" will be the one who finds something you can do with a penny besides weigh yourself.

Musical Diaper
An attempt to return cut plug to popular favor by developing a new "bubble chewing tobacco" will fail.

Five foreign nations will offer to lend money to the American government, but the letters will all be mailed on April Fool's Day.

A musical diaper will be put on the market that plays "break the news to mother" when the baby needs a change.

All in all, however, bears will have more fun than people in 1948. They hibernate.

HOME BUILDING HITS NEW PEAK

Harrisburg, Dec. 13 (AP)—Home building in Pennsylvania reached a new postwar peak in October, with projects launched which will provide accommodations for 2,408 families.

"Home building as measured by permits issued—2121—and dollar value of construction costs—$18,925,807—both reached new high levels," the department of Labor and Industry said in a monthly report.

A total of 7,142 building permits were issued by 346 municipalities for building estimated to cost $30,762,335. The previous high since the end of the war was reached last July.

Sharp increases also were reported by the bureau in construction of new commercial, industrial and public buildings with permits for $6,113,690 in October against $4,246,445 for the previous month. Expansion of offices, factories, institutions, stores and mercantile buildings is largely responsible for the gains.

At the same time, the survey covering municipalities with a population of nearly 6,000,000 persons, showed a gain over September in the dollar value of proposed improvements to residential buildings and a slight drop in improvements to non-residential buildings.

Methodists Allot Missions Millions

Back Hill Falls, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—The Methodist Church has allotted $10,177,558 for missionary service overseas and in this country during 1948—the largest appropriation for missionary work in its history.

The outlay, approved yesterday by the Methodist Board of Missions and Church Extension at the close of week-long meetings, represents an increase of $796,239 over this year's figure.

The planned distribution includes $3,857,355 to the division of foreign missions for its work in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America; $2,048,535 for the division of home missions for use in cities, rural and frontier parishes and institutions and $4,271,664 for the woman's division of Christian service for use both in the United States and overseas.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that approval had been given by the board to the projected Christian university for Japan, which is to be established as "a voluntary gift as a gesture of good will from the Christian people of America to the people of Japan."

MAROONS CRUSH WESTMINSTER 5 BY 46-28 SCORE

Gettysburg high school's basketball team opened their season auspiciously Friday evening by lacing Westminster high 46-28 on the local court before a surprisingly large pre-holiday crowd of over 700 fans.

Coach George Forney's lads were particularly impressive with their speed and tight defense. It was only in the second half when the Maroon second and third stringers were in action that Westminster could score with any consistency. In the first half the Marylanders were limited to three field goals, two of which came on long tosses.

Just 15 seconds after the opening whistle the Maroons scored when Bill Eisenhart netted two free throws. Bruce Westerdaal added another charity point and then Kenny Fair went on a scoring rampage by firing four consecutive goals from close shots. Barnhart netted the visitors' first points on a long shot to make the score 11-2 after about three and one-half minutes of play. Eisenhart converted a free throw which was followed by Fair's fifth goal of the period. Welliver netted a short shot and a goal by Guy Donaldson gave the Maroons a 16-2 advantage at the end of the first period.

Forge Far Ahead
Pouls by Donaldson and Fair and a twin-pointer by the former sent the Gettysburg margin to 20-4 early in the second quarter. Brown looped a long throw for Westminster's only points of the period. Fair connected on a side shot and the scoring for the quarter was completed on Bill Bushman's long toss and a short chuck by Ray Sollenberger. At half time the Maroons were out in front 26-6.

The action slowed up quite a bit in the third period and near the end of the round Coach George Forney began sending in his reserve material. Donaldson, Eisenhart, Westerdaal and Leonard Sitts landed goals during the period which ended 34-11.

With the score 38-15 after two and one-half minutes of the final period, a steady stream of reserves poured into the game from the Maroon bench. Westminster was quick to take advantage and hiked its score to a total of 28. Coach Forney used his entire squad of 14 players.

Jayvees Triumph
One of the pleasing exhibitions for the locals was their fine work from the foul line, 10 points being converted on but 14 shots.

In the preliminary game Coach Howard Shoemaker's Jayvees won over a taller and heavier Westminster scrub outfit 23-17. At half time the Maroons were out in front 13-9.

On Tuesday the local teams will engage in their second games of the year when they play York high on the latter's court. The next home attraction will be next Friday evening when St. Francis Prep will play here.

WESTERN GRID TITLE AT STAKE

Chicago, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Chicago Cardinals won't need a pep talk when they meet their cross-town rivals, the Bears, tomorrow to decide the Western Division championship of the National Football League.

This one is for Bidwill—Charlie Bidwill, the late owner of the Cardinals. Bidwill wanted beyond anything else to produce a championship outfit. He signed All-America Charlie Trippi to a fabulous $100,000 four year contract last winter and incorporated enough other talent to build the structure of a "dream backfield." Trippi, pitching Paul Christman, Marshall Goldberg, Pat Harder—that was it. And in front was an aggressive, scrappy line of brawny power. It was a hand tool that couldn't miss being a strong contender.

Then last winter Bidwill suddenly became ill with pneumonia. He died in about a week.

If sentiment has any part at all in pro football, it certainly looms for tomorrow's skirmish in Wrigley Field. An overflow throng of 47,000-50,000 spectators will watch the Cardinals dig in against the mighty Bears with the Western title going to the winner and a crack at the National championship against the Eastern winner scheduled in Chicago a week hence.

The Cardinals upset the Bears 35-28 a year and beat them 31-7 last October. Another victory would make history for the Redbirds marking the first time they have ever beaten their north side rivals in three consecutive meetings and the first time since 1922 they have defeated them twice in the same season. A Cardinal victory also would be the club's first western crown since the east-west brackets of the league were set up 14 years ago.

LOUIS - WALCOTT RETURN BOUT IS NEAR IMPASSE

By BOB GRUBB

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—A new Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott battle was building up to an impasse today in the negotiations for a return bout between the champion and the challenger.

Injecting a new note in the controversy over the split decision Jersey Joe lost to Louis a week ago, this latest development grew out of a war of words across Eighth avenue.

Shortly after Louis indicated at a Press conference in the Twentieth Century club that light heavyweight titleholder Gus Lesnevich might be an acceptable opponent for Joe's "last bout," Walcott charged that he was being given the "brushoff."

Lesnevich "More Dangerous"
Louis, apparently mindful of earlier warnings from the Walcott camp that Jersey Joe would be satisfied with nothing less than a 30 per cent cut from a return match, raised the Lesnevich angle.

Deriding Walcott by claiming that Lesnevich was a "more dangerous" puncher, Louis intimated that Gus had at least as good a chance as Walcott of getting the title shot. The champion insisted, however that it was the promoter's job and not his to make the matches.

In his hotel opposite the Twentieth Century offices, Walcott retorted: "Louis has always been a great sportsman and a great champion. Now I have my doubts."

"I'm not out for revenge," explained Louis. "Walcott had his chance; he ran away. I didn't. I prefer to fight Walcott again; fight is, I'd prefer him because Lesnevich is the more dangerous puncher. If he had me in the same spot as Walcott did he'd knock me out, for Lesnevich would have known what to do with me, but Walcott didn't."

Wisconsin Trounces Pitt Quintet 49-36

Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP)—Pitt's basketball team was held to eight points in the first half and beaten by the University of Wisconsin, 49 to 36, in the Panthers' first game of a mid-western invasion last night at Madison, Wis.

The Badgers, meanwhile, poured in 21 points—and that was the ball game. Pitt did put on a threatening rally in the second half, once drawing within seven points of the Badgers, at 40-33, but the 13-point halftime deficit was too much to overcome.

The Panthers meet Illinois tonight and Purdue Monday in other trip games.

In games involving other Pennsylvania college teams last night, Susquehanna beat Philadelphia Textile at Selinsgrove, 73-48; Allegheny dropped a 50-36 decision to case at Cleveland; Gannon turned back Steubenville 63-51 at Erie; West Chester thumped Philadelphia Pharmacy here, 64-55; Bloomsburg edged Kutztown at Reading, 36-33, and Hamilton squeezed by Haverford at Haverford, 54-53.

FILM BEAUTY OFFERS HINTS FOR PICTURES

(By The Associated Press)
To look pretty in a picture, all you have to do is learn a few professional tricks, says Hollywood's Hazel Brooks.

The much photographed Hazel says that even pretty girls have little defects which show up when the camera snaps, so it stands to reason that a girl who doesn't have a perfect figure or face or knowledge of makeup technique may take an awful photograph.

But don't despair, says the titian-haired beauty. When you learn to camouflage your defects and play up good points, a pretty picture will be yours.

"Few figures are perfect enough to be photographed head on. This is especially true if you are posing in a bathing suit. When I played in 'Body and Soul' more than 300 still pictures were taken of me. It seems each day I profited by hints that the photographers would give me about posing my body to the best advantage."

Slenderizing Pose
For one thing, Hazel learned that she should try turning her hips slightly sidwise to the camera, then twist the upper part of her body toward the camera. This pose, she says, will help slenderize anyone's hips and help make the shoulders look broader.

In seated poses, Hazel warns, the arrangement of the legs is very important. If your legs tend to be a bit heavy, make certain that when you cross your legs the calf of one leg doesn't rest on the other and create a bulge. But if your legs can use a little padding, do put a bit of pressure on the calf, she advises.

Also important in the sitting pose is to remember to stretch your torso up from the waist as far as possible. This prevents a waistline bulge and will keep your midriff from slumping and spoiling the sleek line that is so flattering.

As for make-up, easy does it, advises Hazel. Here are her sugges-

Demaret Leads Field At Miami Tournament

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret, the crooning Texan who is ending his best year of golf led the field in the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament by two strokes at the halfway point today.

With the fastest competition in the 24-year history of the event narrowed to the top 66 pros and 10 amateurs, the smiling Demaret with 132 for 36 holes had his closest company in persistent Ed Furgol of Detroit at 134.

Still a stroke away were Walt Burkemo and Sammy Byrd, both of Detroit, and Dave Douglas, Wilmington, Del., who won the recent Orlando open.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Chicago stadium, seeking to build up its collegiate basketball program, is ballooning the 1947-48 season as "the year of the peerless pivotmen."

Those fancy words mean there are a heck of a lot of good centers who will appear on the stadium court and elsewhere—for example Alex Groza, Kentucky; Jack Kerris, Loyola; John Brennan, Notre Dame; Ward Williams, Indiana; Ed Mikan, De Paul; Jim McIntire, Minnesota and Alex Hannum, Southern California. . . Any fan probably has his own nomination and no one can see them all in action. . . This Dept. will string along with Groza, until a better player shows up, on the theory that if there's a better center around, Baron Adolph Rupp likely would have him on the Kentucky squad.

TOO DANGED GOOD

Hank Iba, Oklahoma A. and M. athletic director and basketball coach is recognized as one of the best teachers in the court business, but Assistant H. A. Dolman wishes Hank knew when to quit. . . Last spring, Dolman relates, Hank took an all-star college squad to Bartlesville, Okla., to play the famous Phillips team in that town's 50th anniversary celebration. . . At half time, the collegians were far ahead, but Iba had spotted some mistakes on the part of Bob Kurland, seven-foot former Aggie ace. . . Instead of coaching his own team, Iba spent the intermission telling Kurland what was wrong. . . In the second half Bob led Phillips in a game-winning comeback.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Mel Ott, who couldn't pry a starting pitcher away from another National league club during the recent baseball meetings, is hopeful that Andy Tomasic, the former Temple U. footballer, will come through for the Giants. "I haven't seen him," says Mel, "but he struck out 278 men at Trenton and has a lot of spirit." . . . The Long Island golf association has decided to hold a tournament in memory of Bill Richardson, the New York Times golf writer who died last summer. . . Bill Iannicelli, Franklin and Marshall's little all America end, has been named by Muhlenberg players as fullback on their all-opponent team. F. and M.'s only touchdown against the Mules was scored by Iannicelli running 54 yards from a backfield position.

LIPS—Girls whose mouths are too full or too thin should cheat when applying lipstick. To make the lips fuller, draw an outline a shade more than your lips. To make lips thinner, draw an outline a shade less than your natural lip line.

EYES—Draw a fine line with your eyebrow pencil out from the eye about one-quarter of an inch. Apply mascara to darken the light tips of your upper lashes. Don't apply mascara to lower lashes.

NOSE—To make a wide nose seem narrower, apply darker foundation and powder to the sides of the nose; to make the nose seem shorter apply darker foundation to lower part of the nose around the nostrils; to make the nose seem more prominent apply lighter foundation to the nose.

HAIR—Have your hair done a day or two before the sitting. Tight little curls and waves that have just been "set" are unnatural and harsh looking. Give your hair a chance to loosen up a bit and regain its healthy sheen, so that it makes a perfect frame for your face.

MANILA BEGINS ITS REBUILDING

Manila (AP)—War-wrecked Manila's real reconstruction is just beginning, Edward E. Koster, one of the leading American contractors in the Philippines, reports.

Koster said the high cost of building materials and the slowness of the city planning commission in adopting a permanent layout for the new city has held down permanent building so far.

Real estate transactions in Manila during the first eight months of 1947, however, were nearly double those in the like period of 1946, reaching $23,678,383. Much of this was for purchase of land on which buildings were destroyed.

Building costs have come down from last year, Koster said. In 1946 costs were 450 to 500 per cent above the 1941 level.

The former Heacock department store, which cost $400,000 to build in 1938, was repaired for the U. S. government last year at a cost of $650,000 after it had been gutted during the battle for Manila. At present costs are about 350 per cent of pre-war, Koster declared.

WILL ASK SLASH IN INCOME TAXES

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means committee said today he will introduce on the last day of the special session a bill to cut income taxes by perhaps $5,000,000,000 a year.

This will place the measure in position for early action when Congress meets again in January.

More than 100 million fingerprint records are kept by the identification division of the FBI in Washington.

The committee that will arrange for the 1948 banquet consists of Paul Hiltbrich, chairman, George Keefer, Norman Harmon, Edwin Crouse and Ernest Sentz.

Society Meets
The monthly meeting of the Alta Hummer Missionary society of St. John's Lutheran church was held Thursday evening at the parsonage, West King street. The leader for the evening was Mrs. Kenneth D. James. The program opened with the singing of "Silent Night." The topic for the evening was "And they brought unto Him Gifts." Mrs. James offered prayer and also related a story of "Christmas in other lands." There were a number of readings by the group, after which they sang, "O Come All Ye Faithful." There was another reading by Mrs. James, "Gifts for the Savior" after which they sang, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." This was followed by the magazine quiz on the lesson. The program closed with the missionary benediction. Mrs. Malcolm Heiser was pianist.

The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Leonard Kerchner. She read a card of thanks from the Lutheran World Relief Center at Easton, Pa., for the clothing which the society collected several weeks ago for the relief of distressed people in the war-torn countries. The society voted to purchase Christmas gifts for a boy and a girl under the care of the Adams County Welfare Board.

Mrs. Andrew Bauerline was received as a new member of the society. Mrs. George Cool and Mrs. Paul King were appointed auditors. The following nominating committee was appointed by the president: Mrs. Edgar Wolfe, Mrs. Malcolm Heiser and Mrs. Harry O. Harner. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Luther Myers, West King street when the annual elections will be held. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. James to about twenty-five members and guests.

The Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church has announced that there will be special rehearsals of the Senior choir on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and also on December 21 at the same hours to get ready for the cantata, "The World's Redeemer" by Fred B. Holton which will be presented Wednesday, December 24, at 7:30 p.m.

C. of C. Re-Elects Bixler, President: C. A. Bixler, manager of the local telephone company office, was re-elected president of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce at its reorganization meeting Monday evening in the fire engine house.

The other officers selected were: Vice president, Radford H. Lipsey; secretary, Fred G. Pfeffer, and treasurer, Edgar L. Deardorff.

Shenk—Luckenbill: The marriage of James Samuel Sherk, of York, and Miss Mildred Mabel Luckenbill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Luckenbill, of Hanover, was solemnized Sunday evening in the parsonage of St. James Lutheran church. The Rev. Spencer W. Aumst performed the single ring ceremony.

Shenk has been manager of the Delecto dairy lunch, center square, during the last five years.

College to End Engineering Courses in 1941: Decision to discontinue the engineering department at Gettysburg college beginning with the fall of 1941 was reached at the semi-annual winter meeting of the board of trustees of Gettysburg college Tuesday at the Penn-Harris Hotel in Harrisburg.

Aumen Renamed Firemen's Head: Father and son were unanimously re-elected to positions at the head of the Gettysburg Fire company at the annual election conducted Wednesday evening in the fire engine house.

James B. Aumen was elected for his fourth consecutive term as president of the organization and James A. Aumen was renamed chief.

The other officers elected Wednesday evening follow: Vice president, William L. Adair; recording secretary, S. Richard Eisenhart; financial secretary, George D. March; treasurer, Joseph E. Codori; chaplain, Horace M. Bushman; first assistant chief, Paul A. Oyler; second assistant chief, Ralph Fisel; representatives and alternates to the state convention: Charles Rupp, Harry Weaver and Murray Miller, and representatives to the South-eastern association, Harvey Yingst and Walter Crouse.

Myers—Keller: Mrs. Madge Keller and Vernon G. Myers, both of Gettysburg, were united in marriage on Saturday at a Lutheran church parsonage in Westminster, Maryland, by the Rev. G. T. Belt.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hartlaub, Littlestown, were the attendants.

Heagy—Slaybaugh: Mrs. Hermie Etzler Slaybaugh, Aspers R. 1, became the bride of J. W. Heagy, Aspers R. 2, in a wedding ceremony performed recently by the Rev. Paul Quay, Westminster, Maryland.

Miss Clark Named Hospital Treasurer: Directors of the Warner hospital at a regular meeting Friday evening, elected Miss Sarah J. Clark as treasurer, succeeding in that position Mrs. Cora Sferra, who resigned from the office and also as bookkeeper, effective on or about January 1.

Mrs. John Hartlaub, formerly in the office of Dr. J. McCrea Dickson, is succeeding Mrs. Sferra in the office position at the hospital.

Henry M. Scharf, Gettysburg, and S. A. Skinner, Arendtsville, were elected members of the hospital board to fill unexpired terms.

Japan Regrets Sinking of U. S. Gunboat and Two Oil Ships: Shanghai, Dec. 14 (Tuesday) (AP)—The British gunboat Bee reported early today she had rescued eight Americans, seven of them seamen from the United States gunboat Panay; sunk in the Yangtze river above Nanking by Japanese war planes Sunday.

These rescues brought to 61 the known survivors among 72 persons believed to have been on the Panay when she was bombed.

In Shanghai the Japanese navy accepted full blame for the terrific aerial bombardment along the Yangtze in which the Panay was sunk two Standard Oil vessels were bombed and burned and a third bombed and beached.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE FRIENDLY SPIRIT

It will forever remain the wonder of most of us, why all disputes and disagreements cannot be settled in a friendly spirit. Undoubtedly the most idealistic organization ever conceived is that of the United Nations—and yet it has largely been turned into a debating society with bitter and cruel statements made, many of which have been untrue and unworthy of utterance.

No one ever expected that all the nations of the earth could get together and all agree on what is best for each and all, but even in so great an organization, it is possible for all discussion to be made in a friendly spirit.

What a waste of hope where there are bitterness and stubbornness involved where peace and good will are most desired! We all meet situations where there are many problems to be worked out, but, in the main, the free nations and the free peoples of this earth, have done just this. We all have to give and take, gain and lose in our many transactions in life.

All life is somewhat of a compromise. But if the right spirit is entered into, there can always be a happy and just solution to all the problems that face us. The great lawyer is that one who can keep most of his clients out of court.

Few drugs are so harmful as bitter and hateful words, uttered in a dispute. The friendly spirit always wins—and it always wins most! We can well ask ourselves, after an unpleasant discussion, was it worth while? It never is. There is always a best and just decision to every problem. And that one is always gained through friendly talk.

Next to the Golden Rule, that saying of Lincoln's "With malice toward none; with charity for all," should be the spirit about every problem where there may be disagreements and beliefs on both sides. And there is always a just solution to every problem. And when people get together in a friendly spirit the best result is consummated.

Of all the world's elusive things,
I'm sure my glasses head the list.
High search for them each morning brings;
At evening they again are missed.

Now since they've neither legs nor wings
And cannot run or fly away,
I hold, as all man-fashions things,
Where they are left they ought to stay.

"Nobody touches them," I'm told.
The women say the fault is mine.
And hint that I am getting old,
Which is a woman's favorite line.

John H. Slusser, of Gardners, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Thelma Slusser, to Walter F. Gaylor, of Harrisburg.

The ceremony was performed in the First Presbyterian church of Belair, Maryland, by the pastor, the Rev. E. Glenn Switzer, on Friday.

Council Elects: Friday evening, council balloted secretly twice and elected Robert L. Shealer, East Middle street, as the new disposal plant operator. His salary will be the same as that received by Lloyd McLaughlin, $90 a month.

McLaughlin, operator here for four years, quit on Tuesday morning.

Some of the new models have no rear fenders which ought to save a lot of people the bother of tearing them off themselves.

No Lag in Steering

Sometimes we get so accustomed to certain acts in the control of our cars that we never stop to realize certain truths about them. Take steering, for instance. Ever realize that there is no lag between the time you start to turn the steering wheel and the time the car actually moves from the straight ahead position? You know there is quite a lag in braking. And to accelerate takes time. But the instant you move the steering wheel the car responds. People who have never driven cars or ridden bikes have to learn this. There are times, in emergencies and often in parking, when to be conscious of this steering fact would actually help us do a better job.

A Word of Warning

Replacing hydraulic brake cylinder parts at the individual wheels may seem like simple business but there are a number of things to be considered, not the least of which is dunking moving parts in brake fluid before installing them. The cylinder walls themselves should also be wet down with fluid. This insures a better fit with less chance of damaging the rubber cups. On some brakes there is a difference in the size of the cups at either end of the cylinder. This is done where it is desirable to have different braking force on the shoes. Not all brakes have rubber boots over the pistons. One type uses a metal threaded cover which also plays a part in the mechanical adjustment of the shoes.

Proving Your Point

Many motorists who know that a worn timing chain will cause camshaft lag and thus rob the engine of power do not know the simple method for proving chain wear and thus often go along unconvinced that their suspicion is justified. Testing the chain is a matter of removing it from the front-end sprockets and stretching it to its full length. Mark this position on the workbench. Now put the ends inward and mark the chain again.

On a normal size chain the distance between the marks should not exceed 1/32nd inch. If timing is by means of gears, then the lash, or slack, between the new crankshaft and camshaft gears should be somewhere between .001" and .003". Between the idler or accessory gear and the camshaft the lash should range between .002" and .005".

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"One of the oldest tricks in my profession is to try to make trouble worse when trying to analyze it. This seldom occurs to the car owner who is always trying to make the car run at its best. This is, of course, a fine philosophy but when you are looking for trouble it actually handicaps.

"Suppose we have a skip in the engine. Puzzled, we just close the choke valve a little until the engine is forced to lope. With the added strain the engine often will give up its secret. Another trick is to force the engine to pull at low speed in high even if it bucks and hesitates. You can study it best when its struggling. For checking into the cause of mysterious knocks nothing is more useful than to handicap the engine with a very lean mixture or a very rich one. We try one and then the other, certain that something will come to light.

No Fault of Clutch

When is clutch trouble not clutch trouble? That is the question facing many a motorist these days when grabbing, chattering and the like seem to point the finger of suspicion toward the car's coupling. But he is learning that much of this trouble comes from loose engine mounts and misalignment between the engine, clutch and transmission housings. Often oil is leaking past the rear main motor bearing into the clutch, gumming the plate and preventing smooth engagement. Add to the list the possibility of the universal joints not being in alignment.

Clutch Merits Retirement

One reason the clutch is starting to pass from the automotive picture is because most drivers have always used it about twice as much as they should. This has placed a great load on the clutch, on top of its normal service which is excessive enough. A lot of drivers who ought to know better still make the elementary mistake of throwing out the clutch instead of throttling down the engine. They tear up to a traffic light and clutch as they brake, instead of easing up on the gas in plenty of time to let the engine help with the deceleration. There is far too much gear shifting, the clutch being over-exercised in the bargain. Hazardous as it is in traffic many drivers still wait at crosswalks with the car in gear and the clutch pedal held down instead of shifting to neutral.

Keep It In Mind

Failure of the generator to show charge on the ammeter, when the engine is running at a normal speed and there are no electrical units draining it, may indicate merely that the cut-out points have failed to close. A good test is to let the engine run at a car speed of around 25 mph and then close the cut-out points by hand. If the ammeter needle now goes over to the charge side and shows a normal reading you will know that the cut-out points have not been working properly. If there is no improvement, and if the battery isn't over-charged, then there is trouble either with the current regulator or the generator itself.

Do you have some good tools in the garage and are concerned lest they rust? If so, here's an old remedy that ought to come in handy: Melt a pound of fresh lard and a half ounce of camphor. A scum will then form. Remove this and add a little graphite to color. When the concoction is cool apply it to the tools and let it set for 24 hours. Then polish the tools with a woolen cloth.

Anything Can Happen

When a car with hydraulic brakes sounds as if it has a dragging brake rod even the most astute student of car misbehavior is justified in scratching his head. But when this (Continued on page 5)

BIG FOUR PARLEY NEAR END; NEW BLAST BY USSR

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

London, Dec. 13 (AP) — A stormy east-west debate over German reparations, heightened by a new burst of Soviet charges against the United States, France and Britain brought the London conference of foreign ministers near the end of the road today.

A meeting of U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall and his ranking advisers was expected to decide before today's session, scheduled for 10:30 a. m. (EST), whether American policy should be to press for a quick end of the conference or to ride out a few more sessions in the hope that some way could be found to ease a threatened breakup.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, whose sudden switch from conciliatory to assault tactics brought on the crisis last night, was understood to be willing that the sessions continue. A Soviet spokesman said the future of the parley would depend on Marshall.

May Avoid Formal Break
Some of Marshall's advisers said privately they believed Molotov's attack yesterday, when he denounced the whole range of the western powers' policy in Germany, had killed all hope even for superficial big four agreements on Germany and that little if anything could be accomplished by going on here.

Others contended Marshall might better avoid a move to end the conference immediately because of the possibility of the upsetting effects throughout Europe of such a formal big four break.

Similar views had to be resolved into a course of action in the delegations of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. Beyond that it seemed certain the leaders of the western powers would seek an accord before taking any drastic action.

Suspect New Instructions
The speech in which, as some western diplomats said, Molotov "threw the book" at Marshall, Bevin and Bidault came as a surprise, because delegations of the western powers went into yesterday's meeting expecting a continuation of Molotov's conciliatory tactics of last week.

Some had speculated that he might suggest a compromise on reparations.

Possibly that was what Molotov intended. Soviet informants said he had the speech prepared for Thursday's council meeting but did not get a chance to deliver it—or perhaps was not ready to. Yesterday, according to this account, he tore up the speech and substituted another. There was considerable speculation that the Soviet minister acted on new instructions from the Kremlin to revert to tougher tactics.

Labels Denials As False
What he charged had all been said by various Soviet officials or propaganda agencies before. Molotov charged the western powers were propping on German exports, were buying up German firms, were piling up economic obligations on Germany and trying to "perpetuate the division of Germany."

All this, Molotov declared, was part of a strategic scheme to convert the western zones into a basis for an attack on the "Democratic"—that is the Communist—countries of Europe.

What was new, however, according to American officials, was to have Molotov organize all these charges into a single bombshell speech and explode it in the faces of Marshall, Bevin and Bidault. Among them the three had already denied each of the charges. In bringing up the same points again Molotov had in effect labelled their denials as false.

Electric Tension
When Molotov finished and his statement was translated, harsh words began to fly from the other three corners of the table—words that in the older diplomacy would have been fighting talk when exchanged between foreign ministers. Marshall declared that Molotov's "method of procedure makes it rather difficult to inspire respect for the dignity of the Soviet Union." Bevin plunged in swinging verbal blows. Molotov, he said, had dealt to the other foreign ministers "insults" and "abuse" which would be

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg — The evening of games of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of St. Joseph's church will be held Thursday evening, December 18, at the home of Mrs. Charles Myers, East Main street.

A surprise birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bower Tuesday evening. The party was given by Mrs. Bower in honor of her husband. Mr. Bower received many presents. Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Pleagle of Taneytown, Miss Reba Waltz, Silver Run; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ginnell; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Keilholz, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chrimer, Eunice Bouey, Aumen Myers, David Neighbors, Genevieve Kugler, John Garner, Greta Keilholz and Mr. and Mrs. Bower.

Approximately $40 was cleared at the annual Lutheran bazaar held Saturday at the parsonage. The cake table and fancy table were attractively decorated in Christmas style and were the center of attraction.

Mrs. Carris Hartzell and Mrs. Roy Bollinger attended the interment services of Mrs. Eva Schwartz on Monday whose body was brought from her home in Baltimore and buried in the Westminster cemetery.

Mrs. J. E. Houck and daughter, Margaret, and Mrs. Roy Bollinger spent Thursday in Baltimore.

A party was held Friday at the home of Mrs. Nina Givens in honor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beecher L. Ohler, who observed their 54th wedding anniversary. The couple received many gifts. Refreshments were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Beecher L. Ohler, Mr. and Mrs. George Ohler and sons, Melvin and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ohler, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Selby, Mr. Thomas Harbaugh and son, Thomas, Mrs. Nina Givens, Mrs. Beecher Ohler is the last Gold Star Mother of World War I in Emmitsburg.

Suit for $1,500 was entered in court Tuesday by Jacob E. Baker, naming Robert H. and Robert M. Gillelan as defendants. Through Edward D. Storm the plaintiff says his automobile was in collision with another owned by H. Robert Gillelan and driven by Robert M. Gillelan last June between Fairfield and Emmitsburg. He claims he was injured and shocked and that his car was damaged.

Visitors Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ida M. Goulden were Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Sneeringer, Littlestown, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Goulden, and family, Towson, Md., and Mr. Paul Goulden of Hagerstown.

E. L. Annan, Jr., is about again after having slipped down eight steps at his home on Saturday. Mr. Annan received injuries of the back.

TOLL FROM MINE BLAST UP TO 8

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—The number of dead in the Franklin Colliery disaster has been raised to eight with the death of the last of three critically burned miners.

Edmund Orjeski, 42, of Mountain Top, Pa., succumbed to his burns at Wilkes-Barre General hospital last night. Two other miners previously died in the hospital of burns. Five men were killed outright as two gas explosions ripped through a section of the Lehigh Valley Coal company mine near here shortly before noon Thursday.

The colliery had 250 men at work at the time but only eight were in the affected area 1,000 feet below the ground.

It was the eighth anthracite mine disaster in the Wilkes-Barre area this year. Altogether, they took 41 lives.

An investigation is now being made to determine the cause of the latest.

POINT DANGERS IN NEW TAX LAW

Harrisburg, Dec. 13 (AP)—Pennsylvania's new tax law broadening the local tax base may give rise to unequal tax levies unless its limitations are clearly defined, says the state Council of Farm Organizations.

"A sound and equitable system of taxation requires uniformity throughout the state," the council declared in a resolution at its annual meeting here yesterday, and called for legislation defining the limits of the 1947 law.

The council at the same time urged Pennsylvania congressmen to support federal appropriations for agricultural research for which $300,000 in required state funds already have been appropriated for matching purposes.

Re-elected as officers of the council were M. Reed Welch, Burgettstown, president; B. H. Welty, Waynesboro, vice president; J. K. Mahood, Harrisburg, secretary-treasurer and members of the executive committee, Herbert C. Burch, North East; George Sloum, Milton; H. H. Snively, Will Street, Lancaster county, and Ralph L. Culver, Laceyville.

Miles Horst, state Secretary of Agriculture, urged the council to do all in its power to control and eliminate insects and rats which he said costs farmers more than $15,000,000 a year.

Riding With Russel

recently happened actual inspection revealed the fact that the car was suffering from a broken spring shackle.

If the engine of your car started missing whenever you went around a right curve, before it was fully warmed up, but never on a left curve, would you blame it on gremlins? Or would you do some tall checking, and discover, as one of my readers did, that the trouble was due to a very loose heat control valve in the manifold system?

What's On Your Mind?
Q After driving ten miles to my place of business the engine seems to buck and fuss. Sometimes it stalls. I can't understand this as it always starts easily enough. R. K.

A Remove the air cleaner and take a look into the carburetor intake with a flashlight. You will find that the choke valve has not fully opened. The heat control tube to the automatic choke mechanism is clogged with carbon.

Q When installing piston rings should they be fitted at the part of the cylinder where the ring travel ends, at the middle or near the top? W. J. W.

A Always fit the rings to the smallest part of the cylinders. You will usually find that the cylinders have worn tapered.

Q There still is low oil pressure on my car even though I have shimmed up all the connecting rod bearings. The mains seem to be tight enough. Pressure is high enough when the engine is cold but not when warmed up. What's wrong? J. B.

A For one thing the bearings on this car should not be shimmed except for testing clearance. You simply replace the bearing inserts. And how about the oil pump, the pressure relief valve and the engine's general condition?

Q If hot water is added to a radiator that has boiled over should the engine be running or idle? My friends says the engine should not be running. We are both hard to convince. G. P.

A The engine should be operat-

It's a sort of a specialty growing out of her hobby of making dolls that show the development of costume and style changes through the ages.

A number of Mrs. Green's 150-odd dolls are meticulously detailed copies of figures from great paintings. Among them—the painter Rubens and his wife; Mrs. Siddons, the great English actress, Madame Pompadour and Britain's Queen Mother Mary.

The faces, modelled in water putty over a lamp bulb base, often bear striking resemblance to the portraits.

Mrs. Green, who is YWCA employment secretary at Bangor, uses real hair for her dolls' wigs, and often in making costumes uses the exact fabrics portrayed in the paintings from which she works.

Doll-making became Mrs. Green's hobby about 10 years ago, when her daughter, Rachel, was at the age when little girls are devoted to dolls. They started with foreign dolls and developed a series showing the development of dress throughout history—from the cave woman to today's college girl.

EXPECT 200,000 HUNTERS TO GO AFTER DOE TODAY

Harrisburg, Dec. 13 (AP)—Pennsylvania's first statewide antlerless deer season in seven years opened today with an estimated turnout of more than 200,000 hunters.

Good tracking snows and surplus of doe and bucks without visible antlers point to "a good kill" for the one-day season, said Seth Gordon, executive director of the State Game Commission.

Shooting hours are between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Fulton County Closed
All of the 850,000 nimrods who look out licenses are allowed to pursue the antlerless animals except those who bagged a buck in the 12-day antlerless deer season which closed yesterday.

Only Fulton county was closed to antlerless deer hunters after sportsmen there signed a petition abrogating the season. A similar petition for Union county was rejected by the commission because of an insufficiency of bona fide signatures.

Hunters will find plenty of game, Gordon said, in McKean, Warren, Sullivan, Lycoming, Bradford, Elk, Jefferson and the northern sections of Berks, Lebanon and Dauphin counties.

Many Surplus
In those sections, he explained, there has been "the greatest concentration of surplus animals in several years."

"We're encouraging all hunters to look for does where they abound close to farms or orchards," he told a reporter. "In those cases, they're just an all-around nuisance."

Gordon cited instances where herds of from 10 to 50 deer have almost completely destroyed their own habitats by intensive foraging.

40,000 Bucks Slain
Of the estimated 750,000 deer population in Pennsylvania, the game official said about two-thirds consist of does.

He also disclosed that the 1947 antlerless deer season saw a kill unitarily estimated at 40,000 animals, including 31,000 in the opening week which started December 1.

The same game season, he added, was "generally satisfactory" during its one-month duration ended Nov. 30. Official reports on the extent of the kill, however, are still incomplete on both small and big game.

SAYS 'IKE' WAS INSULTED BY GOP

Harrisburg, Dec. 13 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was accorded "shameful treatment" by a group of Pennsylvania politicians at a Washington dinner recently, a supporter of the five-star general asserted yesterday.

The claim was made by Nathan B. Williams, newly appointed temporary chairman of the Pennsylvania Draft Eisenhower league, who said at the same time state headquarters will be opened here next week to boom Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948.

"Last Friday night," Williams said in a statement, "A group of Pennsylvania politicians, who pretend to represent the people of Pennsylvania, after inviting the general to a purely social gathering, proceeded to disgrace the good name of their state by deliberately insulting and embarrassing him."

"Still on active duty in the army of the country he has served so well, General Eisenhower is in no position to defend himself publicly against this kind of shameful treatment," Williams continued, adding: "The so-called social affair at the fancy Washington club was nothing more or less than an attempt on the part of Pennsylvania's notorious Grundy gang under the leadership of former Senator Joseph R. Grundy to trap the general into statements which could be used to head off the mounting wave of Eisenhower for president sentiment in Pennsylvania. The general did not bite any more than he did at Nazi traps x x x."

Psychiatrists Say Ex-Marine Was Sane
Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP)—Three of four psychiatrists called to testify in the murder trial of George Neill, 22, said they believed the former Marine combat veteran was sane at the time he is accused of strangling his 11-year-old niece, Isabelle Mallon.

Dr. William Drayton, a municipal court examining physician, testified yesterday that Neill said he "knew he was going to burn" for the strangulation slaying on a vacant lot last September 6.

Chapter 24

Harry Hawkins rushed into the smoke-filled room, stumbling forward over coats and boxes. Detectives, crowding after him, lit the room crazily with moving patches of light from their electric torches. One beam bathed Jean Saunders in a brilliant white circle as she lay on the floor.

"Jean! Jean!" he cried, running to her side and lifting her blonde head tenderly in his hands. "Oh my darling—are you all right?" Jean opened her eyes, smiled and indicated that only her handcuffed wrists kept her from hugging him tightly.

"Of course I'm all right, sweet," she answered, speaking into his ear softly. "I knew you'd find me if those two thugs took us to the South Pole! I dropped down just when McGann fired. I think the bullet hit that water pipe just about the same second I hit the floor! Now get these handcuffs off me—I've got some important hugging to do."

"You've got some hugging?" he demanded laughingly, as he bent to kiss her. "How about me?" "We'll divide it equally," she said. A detective who had retrieved the handcuff keys from Rosario's body worked to free her wrists. When he had finished, he walked across the room to liberate Charles Dawson.

Meanwhile, Jean became a prisoner again as Harry threw his arms around her in a breathtaking hug that lasted a full minute. Captain Clancy paused to look, shaking his head sadly.

"If only Mrs. Clancy had that kind of enthusiasm again!" he commented admiringly. "I haven't seen the likes of that since June, 1925, at Niagara Falls."

A triumphant convoy of police motorcycles, their sirens blaring wide open, escorted Jean and Dawson to the hospital. After first-aid treatment, baths and 24 hours rest, they were back to normal.

Harry Hawkins met Jean in the hospital's front hall that day taking her suitcase and kissing her long and tenderly. As they walked out of the building, she asked:

"Did they find out how McGann and Rosario got hold of that place where they hid us?"

"McGann bought it from the estate of an old eccentric, about three years ago," Hawkins said. "The former owner had a pathological fear of burglars; that's why he covered all the doors and windows with steel plate. McGann heard about it along the waterfront, bought it under another name and got a skilled metalworker to put in that secret door from the warehouse."

"But how could he do that?" she asked curiously.

"The metal-worker was also wanted for murdering his wife in California—but McGann was the only man in the East who spotted him. McGann managed to have the wanted man hired as night watchman at the warehouse."

"Very neat,"
From the hospital, Jean and Harry walked into three of the busiest weeks of their lives. Together they were assigned to the trial of Raskin and DeLuca, with the horde of lesser gamblers who had been rounded up in the raids on the Cafe Castillo and the Chez Biarritz. Every night, after the trial sessions recessed and their stories were completed, they ate together, holding long, earnest conversations in which love was the dominant note.

One night, though, the talk turned to Charles Dawson.

"There's a subpoena out for Dawson to testify against the Raskin mob," Harry said. "Do you think he'll appear?"

"Not much chance," Jean answered. "He met me in the office tonight, apologized for all the dirty deals he'd given me. Said he was quitting and heading for Mexico. One of the headquarters reporters told me it was common talk that Raskin wiped out Dawson's gambling debts, after he swore not to testify."

The trial ended with the jury of twelve bringing in a speedy verdict of guilty on all counts. Bill O'Reilly, who handled the arrangements for coverage of the trial, rushed to a telephone with Hawkins' bulletin, dictating it three minutes ahead of the opposition syndicates.

Jean and Harry, responding to a call from Howard Arter the next day, found him wreathed in smiles. He greeted them with great cordiality, shaking their hands vigorously.

"What a play those trial stories have had!" he exclaimed. "Banner headlines by the score! Harry, when you go back to the Broadway beat, there'll be a ten per cent increase in your pay envelope. The same goes for you, Jean—and I'm going to assign you to a roving feature assignment. You'll pick your own stories, and write them the way you like."

Jean was so happy that she left the office on the verge of tears. Harry gave her arm a sympathetic little squeeze.

"You've done it, darling," he said. "You're a real success in a town where the competition's as tough as it comes. But there's one thing more I neglected to mention during all this gambling uproar. Just come along quietly, now—there's a little place around the corner especially designed for personal messages."

"The Western Union office?" Jean inquired impishly.

from his coat pocket.

"I've been carrying this around for a week," he admitted, opening it to reveal a large diamond solitaire ring. "But this is the first chance I've had to ask you what's been on my mind for a long time." He took her hand and looked affectionately into her blue eyes. "Jean, dear, will you marry me?"

Jean took the ring, slipping it on her finger.

"Now you've got the happiest guy in the world on your hands," he said. "Do you suppose, about next year, we could collaborate on the creation of a small, exclusive article?"

She smiled a warm, wonderful smile.

"Couldn't we make it a series of six articles?"

THE END

East Berlin

East Berlin—Fred Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Myers, a graduate of the last class of the local high school, has been assisting in the George E. Mummert garage. Fred recently returned from a trip to Florida.

Elmer G. Mummert, George E. Zeigler, Ralph Zeigler and Paul Mummert have returned from their deer-hunting trip. Paul Mummert shot a deer.

Another successful deer-hunter was Lester Myers R. 2. His companion on the trip was Donald R. Moul.

Richard A. Smith, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Smith, who was recently released to inactive duty in the U. S. Naval Reserve at the receiving station, Washington, D. C., has returned to his parents' home.

SIX ARE SLAIN IN CHICAGO BY 3 MAD GUNMEN

Chicago, Dec. 13 (AP)—Three gunmen, described by police as "mad dog killers," went on a shooting rampage last night and early today, shot and killed three men and wounded two others before one of the gunmen was slain by police and a second was seized.

Bodies of two of the victims of the gang's shooting spree were found in Western suburbs at 6 a. m., CST, today, about 10 hours after the trio had slain one man in a South Side garage and abducted four men.

Two others who had been taken on the "gang ride" had been shot and wounded and also dumped into a highway in suburban Brookfield. However, one man, not seriously wounded, telephoned police.

Kidnapped In Garage
The four had been kidnapped at the South Side garage of Nick Kuesis, 40, after the gunmen had fatally shot Nick's brother, John, 33, owner of a used furniture store.

Kuesis' slayer was identified by police as Tom Daley, 42, an ex-convict, who was slain by a squad of detectives early today as he attempted to flee from a West Side apartment. His slaying followed the seizure of one of his companions.

Daley's companion, Capt. Andrew Barry said, told him that after shooting John Kuesis and abducting four men in the garage they drove to Brookfield where they shot John Kuesis' brother, Nick, and Frank Baker, 17, and pushed their bodies from the car.

Nick, not seriously wounded, telephoned police.

Later, Barry said the gunman told him, they shot and killed Emil Schmikal, 18, and a youth identified as James Alex and dumped their bodies into a ditch in suburban McCook and Hodgkins, Baker, Schmikal and Alex were reported by police to have been employees in Nick Kuesis' garage.

Police Lt. John McNamara said that the shooting started after three gunmen appeared at the Kuesis garage last night and argued with John Kuesis over an automobile repair bill.

McNamara said John Kuesis, who was the father of five children, had beaten Daley recently and that they had been on unfriendly terms for the last several weeks after Kuesis had appeared as a witness against Daley during his trial on a robbery charge.

Police said John Kuesis, as well as Daley, had police records dating back several years.

York Springs

York Springs—Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Smith included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Powers, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Powers, Jr., and daughters, Patsy and Carol, all of York. Mrs. Powers, Sr., is a sister of Mrs. Smith.

John Heisey has re-enlisted for further naval service.

A Christmas tea for the York Springs Homemakers' club was given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Paul Bubb. Small gifts were exchanged by members.

These students of the junior-senior high school group have made the honor roll for the last report period: Grade 12—Thelma Griffin, Jean Hetherington, Dorothy Weigle; grade 11—Barbara Chronister, Charles Congleton, Jean Harbold, Joan Harbold, Richard Miller and Estella Sharrer; grade 10—Frank W. The army has released only 11 of the 20 names. They include: T/4 R. L. May, 19, Hazleton; T/5 E. R. Damford, 18, Easton, and Pfc. Carlo Trunzo, 18, Tarentum.

A Xmas Serial

Santa And The Good Boy

SYNOPSIS: Mr. Sleek promises

Tom Clover a star if he will bring him a red sheep's wool. Only a brave and good boy can get the wool and, if Tom fails, Mr. Sleek will destroy Santa Land and there will never be Christmas again.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Tom Goes to the Land of Tomorrow

Mr. Sleek had told Tom there was such a thing as a red sheep and Tom had to believe him because if he didn't get the red sheep's wool he wouldn't get the star from Mr. Sleek and if he didn't get the star he wouldn't win the Christmas tree prize for his mother.

But the boy had no idea where to begin looking. He sat on a road side and tried to think.

Suddenly he heard a tiny sound like a sneeze—not a man sneeze but a mouse sneeze—and he saw a very small creature, about the size of half an ear of corn, standing at his elbow.

"W-who are you?" gasped Tom.

"I am Rudolph. I am a Santa Land fairy," said the little one.

Now Tom knew there were such things as elves and brownies and fairies in the world but it just happened he had never seen one before and he hardly dared to breathe.

Rudolph said, "Santa has sent me to tell you where you can find a red sheep."

"A red sheep?" cried Tom. "How did he know?"

"Why, boy, Santa knows pretty nearly everything. He knows, for instance, there is a red sheep on the meadows of Nettyboo."

"Nettyboo! I've never heard of it!"

"No. It's not likely to be found in geography books because it's in the Land of Tomorrow."

"Oh, my goodness!" wailed Tom. "Where is that?"

"Why?" explained Rudolph matter-of-factly. "It's the Land that comes after today. It is Tomorrow and Tomorrow has things you never dreamed of—like chickens that lay eggs already fried and pigs with bacon growing out of their ears and fish without scales or bones and a sheep with red wool—for red woolen underwear, you know."

Tom's eyebrows climbed right up his forehead in astonishment. "Oh, my!" he gasped. "But, tell me, how does one ever get there?"

"Well, it is a very ticklish business. Ordinarily today is today and tomorrow is tomorrow and when you get to tomorrow you find it's really today and tomorrow is the next day after. Some people spend all their lives waiting for tomorrow and it never comes at all because it is always the next day after."

Rudolph caught his breath and Tom caught his, too, for all this explanation had left him breathless.

Then Rudolph said, "However, I can show you a short cut." He pointed to the west. "You see over there at the edge of the world? If you go over that edge and round on the other side you will be in Tomorrow when it's today here it is tomorrow over there."

"I see," cried Tom. "I'll go!"

"Wait!" Rudolph pointed to the sun which was directly overhead. "You must get there before the sun for when the sun gets there it won't be Tomorrow. It will be today."

"I'll run," cried Tom, and, with a wave to Rudolph, he started running across the fields. Oh, how he ran! He ran until his legs ached and his back creaked and his lungs felt like they had been pumped right out of his body.

But though he ran through most of the afternoon he never got any closer to Tomorrow and meanwhile the sun had traveled far ahead and was almost there.

Finally he stopped running and paused to rest by an old dump heap. Suddenly a violent wind rushed out of the east and sent a wide open umbrella scuttling over the trash. It crashed against Tom and the curved handle stuck in his belt.

He tried to free himself but the wind got under the umbrella and swept it along, carrying Tom with it. Finally he freed himself but instead of letting go of the umbrella he sat in the curve of the handle and clung to the stick with both hands.

Then a wonderful thing happened. The wind became a hurricane and it swept Tom and the umbrella up into the sky. How he managed to hold on, he never knew, for he was carried faster than lightning, faster than sound, faster even than thought can go.

When the wind finally died away and he started drifting to the earth he saw he had gone faster than time itself. He had left the sun far behind in the east and the land below was the Land of Tomorrow. (Next: Tom Gets the Red Wool)

USSR PROTESTS NEW ARRESTS OF REDS IN FRANCE

Paris, Dec. 13 (AP)—A foreign ministry spokesman said today the Soviet Embassy had protested new French arrests of Russian citizens at Paris and Marseille.

He said the note had been delivered this morning and was being translated. He said he was unable to give any details as to its contents or comment upon it.

The semi-official French press agency quoted the Soviet embassy as saying Alexandre Abramov, the charge d'affaires, had handed a note to Jean Chauvel, secretary general at the French foreign ministry, asking the immediate liberation of those arrested.

Soviet Note Refused

Earlier this week the French government refused to accept a Soviet note protesting the expulsion of 19 Soviet citizens from France last month and last night it informed Moscow that it considered that action had been entirely legal and proper.

A foreign office note, handed to the Soviet embassy last night, said the 19, whose expulsion was carried out at the height of the recent Communist-bossed strikes in France, were expelled in accordance with international law and usage and without mistreatment. The French accused them of "interference" in the affairs of France.

The note was made public only a short time after the national assembly gave Premier Robert Schuman's cabinet a new vote of approval in a debate on criticism of the French government by Lt. Col. Raymond Marquie, Communist chief of the expelled French repatriation mission to Moscow. The vote was 411 for Schuman and 183 Communists against.

The expulsion of the 19 Russians from France was followed last Tuesday by the mutual ouster of each other's repatriation missions and severance of trade negotiations. Marquie, head of the French mission, held a press conference in Moscow Wednesday and accused his government of being at fault.

Little Hope For Men In Flooded Coal Hole

Shamokin, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—Muddy water sloshing in the shaft of a coal hole near here still thwarted rescue crews today from learning the fate of two miners believed to have drowned when the mine flooded.

The missing miners, Raymond Edmunds, 54, and Anthony Gracosi, 43, both of Shamokin, were trapped 125 feet below the surface Thursday when a dam of water in an adjoining abandoned mine broke through into their workings.

State Mine Inspector Thomas Brophy said there was little hope of finding the men alive, but rescue crews, working night and day, have been attempting to pump the mine dry of water in order to launch a search.

A third miner, Marlin Gessner, 27, of Goven City, working in the pit at the time of the flood, escaped by running to safety ahead of the flood. He said he was loading a mine car when he heard "a sudden roar of water" and fled down the slope.

GOP May Not Lock Door On Controls

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Republican Congressional leaders were reported today to have shied away from locking the door against government controls in their forthcoming cost of living statement.

Members who saw a preliminary draft Senator Taft (R-Ohio) was prepared to lay before a conference of all the Republican Senators today (10 a. m., EST), said it was significantly devoid of any attack on President Truman's request for standby wage-price and rationing authority.

These Senators, who asked that they not be identified publicly, said they interpreted this as leaving a loophole through which the GOP could fall back on some form of compulsory action if the voluntary methods it supports fail to halt rising prices.

FIREMEN AID BY CHECKING FLOUR MILLS

New York (AP)—A nationwide campaign among local fire departments to aid the grain saving movement by checking the number of fires in flour mills and grain elevators through inspections has been launched by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Losses of "several million bushels of grain" in two elevator fires last December and two grain and flour mill fires in the early months of 1947 are cited in a bulletin distributed to fire departments.

"With an emergency relief demand of 100,000,000 bushels of grain for the starving people in the war swept areas, and the need of maintaining a fairly normal supply for the people of the United States, immediate action to prevent destruction by fire of grain and grain products becomes of vital importance," the bulletin states.

To Make Surveys

Local fire departments are urged to start with complete surveys of fire hazards in elevators, grain and feed mills, bakeries, groceries and feed stores.

"The fire department should advise these places to undertake a self-inspection service by some of the staff competent to undertake the work," the board urges.

"Self-care may often prove of more value than outside inspection and supervision, and for that reason it is essential that all establishments storing, handling and processing grain and grain products should be vitally interested in a self-inspection service," the bulletin explains.

Fire departments are urged to call local meetings through chambers of commerce and insurance agents' associations to explain the need for constant self-inspection to all business men involved in the grain business.

Pamphlets Available

Citing cleanliness as the best safeguard against grain dust explosions, the board announces that it has pamphlets available without cost to fire departments on the following subjects: No. 63 Prevention of Dust Explosions in Industrial Plants; No. 64 Dust Ignitions in Country Grain Elevators; No. 91 Blower and Exhaust Systems for Dust; No. 92 Waterproofing of Floors and Drainage; No. 13 Sprinkler Equipments; No. 61 Starch Factories, Terminal Grain Elevators, Flour and Feed Mills.

Forms also have been printed for use in self-inspections in grain handling, mercantile establishments and industrial plants.

"Fire was a major weapon in the defeat of our enemies in World War II," the bulletin reminds. "Shall fire be allowed to continue this destruction of the materials and commodities so essential to the peace of the world?"

RUSSIANS WILL FIGHT TO FINISH TO GAIN ITALY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Poor old Rome! Twenty years of Fascist Mussolini, and now a battle royal with totalitarian Communism which is described by Richard M. Scammon, official of the American military government in Germany, as "Fascism with a coat of Red paint." However, the flag of the new Italian republic still flies high in challenge to revolutionary tactics, and with the collapse of the general strike in the capital the government is doing better than holding its own. A thoroughly organized and powerful Communist party, drawing its inspiration and orders from Moscow, has been riding the economically stricken nation like the old man of the sea, but while it's too soon to make categorical predictions, things look brighter and there are good grounds for hope that Italy will pull through.

Russians Mean Business

Of one thing we may be dead sure: Red Russia never will abandon its effort to secure domination of the Italian peninsula so long as it has a foothold. The Muscovites mean business with this world revolution of theirs, as witness the explosion in the Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference in London yesterday. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov is said to have resumed his bitter lambasting of western democracy policies. The storm got so fierce that Secretary of State Marshall reportedly declared "It is very difficult to have any respect for the dignity of the Soviet government," and said Molotov's statement was made for "quite another purpose" than the problems of Germany and for "quite another audience" than the foreign ministers. And British Foreign Secretary Bevin is quoted as characterizing Molotov's tirade as a whole series of insults and complete untruth, and adding that the Russians might at least thank the other ministers for sitting through such a statement.

Have Many Reasons

Well, that represents the harsh Bolshevik spirit behind the attack on Italian sovereignty. Moscow is particularly anxious to secure control of Italy for several reasons, among which are these:

1. It's essential for furtherance of the Soviet scheme to defeat the Marshall plan for the rehabilitation of western Europe.
2. It's vital to the success of the Red campaign to Sovietize western Europe.
3. Italy, lying as it does on the Adriatic just across from Red Yugoslavia, would form a powerful defense for this southern flank of Russia's present zone of influence in eastern Europe.
4. Last—but far from least—the peninsula would provide a magnifi-

Newspaperman At Philadelphia Dies

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania in 1905, he also worked on the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and the old Press and Evening Telegraph.

cent naval and military base through which Russia might achieve a burning ambition running back for generations into the time of the czars, and that is to become a Mediterranean power. Indeed, control of Italy might make Russia the dominant power in the whole Mediterranean and Middle Eastern area, thus completely altering the present distribution of influence among the great nations, especially Britain, France and America.

Italy is a prize for which Russia is bound to fight to a finish.

College Grad Travels To Learn European Conditions

Alan T. Deibert, graduate of Gettysburg college in the class of 1918 and former instructor in French at the college and at the former Gettysburg Academy and now adviser to the 150 students from 48 foreign countries attending George Washington university at Washington, D. C., is the subject of a feature article appearing recently in the Washington Sunday Star.

The article, written by Jessie Fant Evans, tells about Prof. Deibert's trip through Europe last summer when he resumed his pre-war summer custom of acquainting himself with conditions in foreign lands by traveling through them.

The story follows in part: A fluent linguist, Prof. Deibert has been associate professor of romance languages at the George Washington University for the past 25 years and is assistant dean of its Columbian College. He visited in the homes of former pupils in Holland, France, Belgium, Switzerland and Luxembourg.

In Holland and the little 62x37-mile Duchy of Luxembourg, he found the people struggling off war-occupation miseries and working on the universal theory that they "must spend less and produce more." In contrast to France, they believe hard work will bring them back to prosperity. Everything is neat, clean and orderly, with the emphasis on tomorrow.

When Prof. Deibert got off the train at Rotterdam, he had the feeling he was in a cleared field. The bombing had been intense and destruction near total, but all the rubble has been cleared. Trains are neat and clean and running on schedule, poor as the rolling stock is. There are young cattle in the fields, imported chiefly from North and South America, as replacements for those seized by the Nazis.

Luxembourg Mills Busy

Luxembourg claims it has never had a black market. It has the same Foreign Minister (Joseph Bech) it had in 1937; and is exporting most of the steel it is making, with this little country's steel-producing mills averaging an output which ranks the seventh largest in the world. The people in Belgium, in common with those in Holland, Luxembourg and Switzerland, are proceeding upon this axiom: "Political theories may change but the laws of economics do not." In their general prosperity they are justifying their belief that those who work hard will get ahead.

One of Prof. Deibert's pilgrimages was to Gen. Patton's grave in the cemetery at Hamm where the townspeople and their officials were reverently proud of having this great American war leader buried in their midst.

Lack Facilities

Everywhere Prof. Deibert found a pathetic eagerness upon the part of parents and young people to make the most of the educational opportunities offered. Overcrowding, lack of textbooks, makeshift housing and insufficiency of accommodation are universal problems in school rooms whose winter temperatures are often as low as 40 degrees.

"There is general enthusiasm concerning the exchange of students, so that the potential intellectual leaders of tomorrow may have a basis of mutual understanding with other countries," Mr. Deibert told me.

Black Market Grips France

He was discouraged about conditions as he saw them in France. The black market has a strangle hold upon the very vitals of the country.

In Paris where he had studied at the Sorbonne during his own student days, it seemed to him the people generally were discouraged. Those who are still willing to work have the feeling, "What is the use?" Fearful of outside domination, they regard DeGaulle as the only figure about whom they can rally, although there was a general feeling that he is a greater soldier than diplomat. Even when Prof. Deibert was in France in August, strikes plus mounting prices were throwing the rank and file of non-Communist Frenchmen into the gravest concern as they sold their valuables to keep strength in their bodies.

"The American University Union in Paris, closed during the war, has not been re-opened, although the British one has been and is doing a great deal for its nationals," he said. "On the other hand the American Church in Paris, the only American church in Europe to remain open during the war, is still functioning helpfully and effectively."

Prof. Deibert this fall was cited by the Alumni Association of his alma mater, the George Washington University, for his outstanding service in behalf of the university's foreign students. At his headquarters at 2116 G street in a picturesque old house recently acquired by G. W., he maintains its fourth successive "International House."

While George Washington's foreign students are recruited from all ranks, many come from the families of members of the embassy and legation staffs accredited to this country. To meet their needs G. W. has two courses in English for foreign students which are extremely popular. One is for beginning students, the other for more advanced pupils.

PAULEY CASE CAN LEAD TO WIDE PROBE

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Senate appropriations committee today promised an early decision on whether to touch off a full scale investigation of commodity market speculation by government officials.

The group has decided in any case that it wishes to hear further from Edw. W. Pauley, special assistant to the Secretary of the Army, who already has disclosed himself as a speculator in the million dollar class. The date of the next appearance by Pauley, a former Democratic national treasurer, has yet to be fixed.

To Study Reports

Chairman Bridges (R-N. H.) said the decision whether to expand the inquiry will be made after the committee examines reports from the heads of five government departments on whether any of their personnel are using inside knowledge to profit in the grain markets.

Bridges told a reporter this probably will be done early next week, since the committee has been advised that checks are under way in the State, Treasury and Agriculture Departments. The committee has asked for similar information from the Departments of Commerce and National Defense.

Pauley told the committee yesterday that there was "no impropriety" in his trading in commodities.

Claims He's "Worse Off"

He said he has disposed of nine-tenths of his holdings since he be-

Collins' Attorney In Mobile Today

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 13 (AP)—The Attorney of James Robert Collins was in Mobile today to learn whether a full pardon can be obtained for the escaped life term who became a respected and well-to-do Quakertown, Pa., businessman.

The attorney, C. William Freed of Quakertown, said he had talked with Collins' family here and planned to go to Montgomery Monday to confer with Alabama state officials.

He added that he wanted to find out whether it would be necessary for Collins to return to plead his case for a pardon, or whether he could plead his case for him.

"Naturally, Collins wants to come back here to see his family, but we want to see what the attitude toward him is first," Freed said. Collins' case attracted national attention following his arrest and disclosure that he had fled from an Alabama prison in 1936.

came Royall's aide last September 3 and that he is $100,000 "worse off" as a result.

He agreed to come back with a record of all his commodity transactions during the period he has been in the government service. He told the senators his holdings when he came to the Department of Army were something under $1,000,000.

"If the indications are that a thorough investigation should be made," Bridges told reporters, "certainly this committee isn't going to do it. We are going to be too busy after the first of the year to spend a couple of months on this."

UMW WALKS OUT ON AFL SEEKING 'INDEPENDENCE'

By HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—John L. Lewis has divorced his 600,000 miners from the AFL again in a move viewed by some labor men today as a sign that he intends to play independent in the 1948 presidential election.

The second split between the United Mine Workers and the American Federation of Labor came 11 years after Lewis first marched them out of the parent body and less than two years after he marched them in again. It was no surprise.

The 67-year-old Lewis had had his hat in his hand ever since the last AFL convention, when the executive council refused to go along with him in an all-out fight against the non-Communist provision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Green Is "Very Sorry"

The formal break came last night with a typical Lewis gesture of contempt and a typical five syllable word which fell like an epithet — "Disaffiliate."

"Green AFL — We disaffiliate. 12/12/47."

These words, scrawled in green crayon on a torn-off half sheet of cheap paper, were all the notice Lewis sent President William Green of the AFL.

In New York, Green said only that he was "very sorry indeed" to learn that Lewis and his mine workers had pulled out of the federation. He said he had not seen the mine leader's message, but expected to find it waiting for him at his Washington office today.

While other union officials declined to be quoted offhand, several said a desire by Lewis for political independence next year probably hastened the end.

CASE NEAR JURY

Reading, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—The fate of Frank S. Linkowski, a 28-year-old ex-G.I. charged with fatally shooting Frank Zabczyk at the Polish Falcons club September 15, is expected to be placed with the jury sometime today. Linkowski last night denied he fired the fatal shot and Mrs. Mary Linkowski, his 67-year-old widowed mother, and a sister, Jennie, testified that he was home in bed from 2 a.m. September 15 until his arrest in city hall later the same day.

FORECAST FOR '48

Uniontown, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—David L. Lawrence, mayor of Pittsburgh and a Democratic national committeeman, said at an address here, he believes Secretary of State Marshall will be the party's vice presidential nominee in 1948 and that he and President Truman will "sweep the nation." Lawrence said he did not believe Gen. Douglas MacArthur will run for president.

In 1916, one of the most serious causes of U. S. auto accidents was "cranking."

If oysters are immersed in carbonated water for five minutes they are much easier to shuck.
